How far will Disney go?

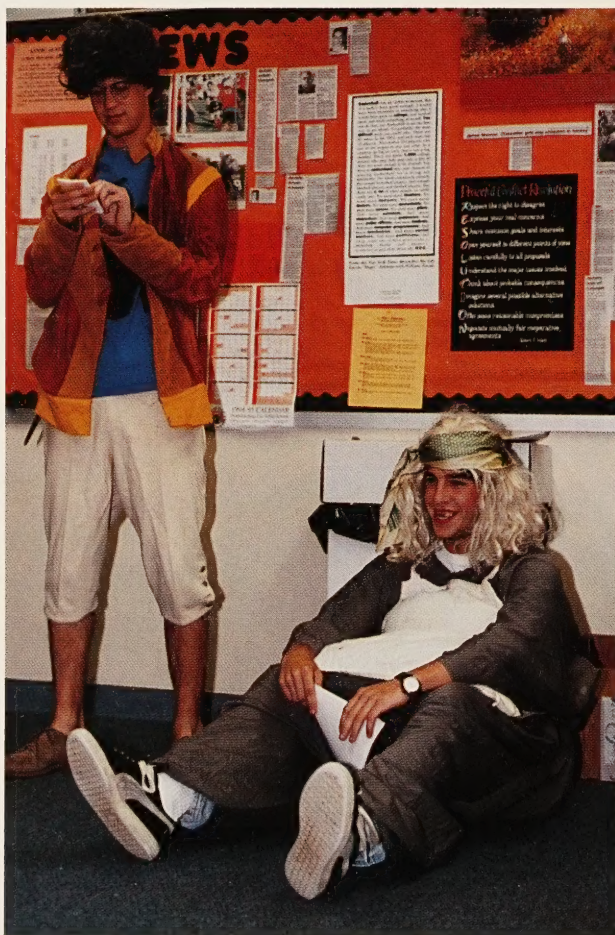

Combine 800 adolescents in a relatively small building for seven hours, and something other than learning is likely to transpire.

Student life is an important part of every school. The class clown can add an amusing twist to any situation, although it is not always appreciated. Friends can bring you up when you are down, or just behind. There are those we ridicule, when, if we consider it, we couldn't get along without them.

Fortunately at J.M. most everyone gets along, even if there are secret adversions between groups, and a blend of people from all backgrounds brings variety to our school, and subsequently, this section of the yearbook. When it's all over, the truth is that you will not remember all of the picky details of class, but instead, the five minute segments of freedom between these classes and the people that kept you going when you thought you couldn't make it.

These student life pages reflect the high times of the school year and they are sure to bring back many memories in years to come.

STUDENT LIFE

Elliot Currie and Bill Anderson enjoy themselves while performing a skit from The Canterbury Tales in Mrs. Young's Advanced English 12

Nikki Ellis, deep in introspective thought, dreams of her fifteen minutes of allotted fame on the field.

Rushing to the bus, Raketa Foreman still finds time to get up close and personal.

Mike D'Amelio emerges victorious from Rally's, an establishment frequented by James Monroe students.

Ryan Epp, Emily Scott, and David and Laura Woody worked long hours to beautify Old Maury Stadium. Go Jackets!

Jade Gibson speaks her mind self assuredly as Andre Randolph listens with skepticism.

Sibling Rivalry

"All younger brothers and sisters are annoying by law." - David Woody

With 729 students at James Monroe, almost 100 of them have a sibling at this school. Even though siblings don't always get along, when we put them together, many similarities appeared. We talked to several of them, one of whom was Carter Corbin. She said that she and her sister Sallie had many things in common, such as friends and hobbies. Carter liked being on her sister's field hockey team, because she felt more at ease being with the older girls when her sister was there. Sallie felt that knowing Carter's friends made her feel older and more mature.

Dwayne and Tim Coleman are another set of siblings at Jayem. According to Dwayne, having a brother at school has led him to "an easier life with the girls." His opinion towards his brother changes depending on whether they are at home or at school. Dwayne feels that when at home, Tim is a pest, but at school; however, he is not as bad, because they don't see each other very much.

Another set of siblings is the Senavanhs. Noy and Choy both enjoy art. Noy hopes to make it a professional. Choy, however, is still undecided. They are often seen together in and out of school doing fun and exciting activities.

David and Laura Woody share some common interests, the most well-known being art. Together, along with several others, they successfully completed the Maury Stadium mural. Although Laura is reluctant to see David leave for college, she is excited about being the only "Woody" in school.

Even though Noy and Choy Senevanh are sisters they are very different. While Choy enjoys rooting for the football team, Noy likes sitting around and drawing.

Catesby, Tooter, and Sarah haven't always gotten along, but many things have brought them together. They realize that friends come and go, but you will always have your sisters.

Showing their pearly whites, the Butry's and Stevie Robinson pose for the camera. Here two families come together in almost complete harmony.

PEZ: Katrina Cannon collects, what else, Pez dispensers! Hey, who doesn't?

TIES: Joseph Ellis, wearing a tie? Who would have guessed? Hopefully everybody.

BATMAN: Ryan Epp is a batman fanatic. This is just a small portion of his collection, which he claims is the largest on the East Coast.

BARBIES: Barbies, Barbies everywhere. Looks like Kristen Northern has got Barbie on the brain.

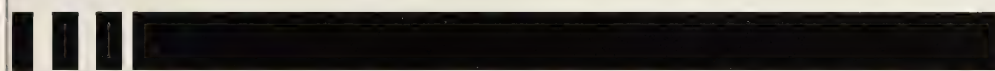

WET-NAPS: Sara Rycroft proudly displays her "crown" of wet-naps. She even has some wet-naps from other countries. Her collection gets a little larger every time she goes to a restaurant.

What Do Students At Jayem Collect ?

COLLECTIONS

Do people ever wonder what to get you for your birthday? Well, if you start a collection they'll wonder no more.

What Do People at J.M. Collect?

Well, what do they collect? That is the question that the yearbook decided to ask the students of J.M. this year. We got all kinds of responses. By far the most popular was sports cards. Our students collect football, baseball, basketball, and soccer cards. Stamps and coins came in a strong second. How about a blast from the past? Some students collect vinyl 33 records. Candles, Christmas tree ornaments, stickers, and friends are also collected at James Monroe. Drew Rodkey and Jason Loverdi collect swimming medals and ribbons from the various swim meets they have attended. Donnie Johnson builds and collects model cars. Paul Kosko has over four-hundred half-dollars. Jayem also has a few historians who collect relics from the Civil War. And no list of collections would be complete without mentioning all of the collections of stuffed animals. Starting a collection is not only a worthwhile hobby, but it could also turn profitable. Starting a collection now is something that could be a lasting hobby throughout your life.

High On Fashion

From bells to baggy jeans, from platform shoes to Texas - even from the ever present ponytail to the exquisite braided creations...fashion, much like people, changes over time. All of these fashions can be found roaming the halls of JM.

In the 60's, we had beehives, bells, and the "hippie" look. In the 70's, we had the 10 inch afros, leisure suits, and platform shoes. In the 80's, we had Adidas jogging suits, Adidas shoes, Kangols, and jheri curls. Now, in the 90's, we're just confused.

Afros, bells, and platform shoes are all back, and said to be better than ever.

Body piercing and tatoos, however, are the latest in painful fashion accessories. What does this say about our generation?!

The hair, clothes, and accessories are just the basics in selecting a nice outfit. The attitude is what completes the look. If you hook up a cute outfit, and have an ugly attitude, the whole outfit is ruined. However... when a fly outfit is accented by a sweet attitude, the outfit is not only complete, but also the best.

Kenny Griffis, sitting in the hallway, sports the ever popular grunge look.

What every girl needs in her closet -- a little black dress.

Striking a pose, Brad Neasham displays his preppy, yet stylish outfit.

Ribbit! Ribbit! Ribbit... the '60's are back at JM!

A footnote... Fashion is what you make of it.

A new student to James Monroe High School during spirit week would think that we are a little cu-koo. They would be right. This year, many people participated in Spirit Week, which made it a week to remember. Let's call the new student Fred.

On Monday, as Fred was walking down the hall, he saw many people wearing a variety of hats. He saw cowboy hats, straw hats, baseball caps, and umbrella hats. Fred went home after his first day very confused because he did not think that students were allowed to wear hats at school.

When Fred arrived at school on Tuesday, he was greeted by a plethora of twins. In each of his classes there were at least three sets of twins, and he thought that it was either the largest coincidence ever, or the small town of Fredericksburg had suffered a nuclear disaster.

Wednesday morning, Fred was tardy to his first period because he had an asthma attack after noticing the number of people who were cross-dressers at JM. When he got home, he went into his mother's closet and decided what he would wear on Thursday.

Fred was not aware that JM had a hunting team or a horseback riding team. He decided that JM had to have these two teams, why else would some students dress as hunters and riders on Thursday? He was considering going out for the horseback riding team next fall because there were some hot babes dressed like riders on Thursday.

On Friday Fred was exposed to a new activity, JM pep rallies. During the pep rally, he finally understood why the people at James Monroe were so peculiar his first week. Fred was told that it was Spirit Week at JM, and everyone was getting psyched for the big homecoming game against the King George Foxes later that night.

After he was assigned detention for Monday afternoon (for wearing a hat in school), he learned that Monday was Hat Day and that on any other day, hats were not allowed to be worn. Fred was glad to hear that Tuesday was Twin Day and that there had not been a nuclear disaster in Fredericksburg. Fred was also relieved that Wednesday was Cross-dress Day and cross-dressing was not a habit of most JM students. When Fred found out that Thursday was Fox Hunt Day and there was not a riding team or a hunting team at JM, he was very disappointed, but then he planned to go out for the field hockey team. That Friday, Fred jumped for joy when he wore orange and black to school (accidentally), and he looked like everyone else. He finally felt like he fit in at his new school! That is, until half way through the pep rally, he saw guys wearing skirts and spandex for no good reason. Poor Fred; he was confused all over again.

On Thursday, Fox Hunt Day, Beth Richard dresses as a rider. Tally Ho!

It's the president, it's Uncle Sam, no it's Mr. Morris on Hat Day! Decked out in his "stars and stripes" James Monroe's government teacher shows high spirit.

A S P I R I T U A L H I G H

James Monroe's mascot is always in orange and black, so Friday, Orange and Black Day, s/he definitely fit in.

Tito Samuel shows his stuff on Cross-Dress Day. Wednesday students swapped genders and clothes to show their spirit.

Chris McLaughlin and Paul Kosko dress as twins on Tuesday. These Erkel wanna-be's didn't quite get their costumes right, but they were close enough to show school spirit.

Twistin' Through The Night

As the homecoming game began, the stands filled with excited Jayem fans. Many students, teachers, and parents had their faces painted with orange and black to show their spirit. Throughout the week, the enthusiastic students dressed up for various spirit activities to support their team.

The intense look on Coach Serbay's face showed it all. It was a hard game, but the Jackets held their own. At half time, everyone stayed in their seats waiting to see who was going to be crowned king and queen. The third quarter was a tough one, but the Jackets maintained their lead. As the fourth quarter began, the team played strong, but even with the crowd's encouragement and a strong defense, the Foxes made an outstanding play in the final seven seconds to top the Jackets with a score of 24-21. The disappointment weighed heavily on the spirited crowd as they watched the team walk off the field.

They quickly overcame their despair as they prepared for the homecoming dance on Saturday. The theme of the dance was "Dance Through the Decades." There was a wide range of music to go with the theme, from Chubby Checker to Boyz II Men.

Carlos French and Tiffanye Coghill, the King and Queen, lead the first slow dance of the night.

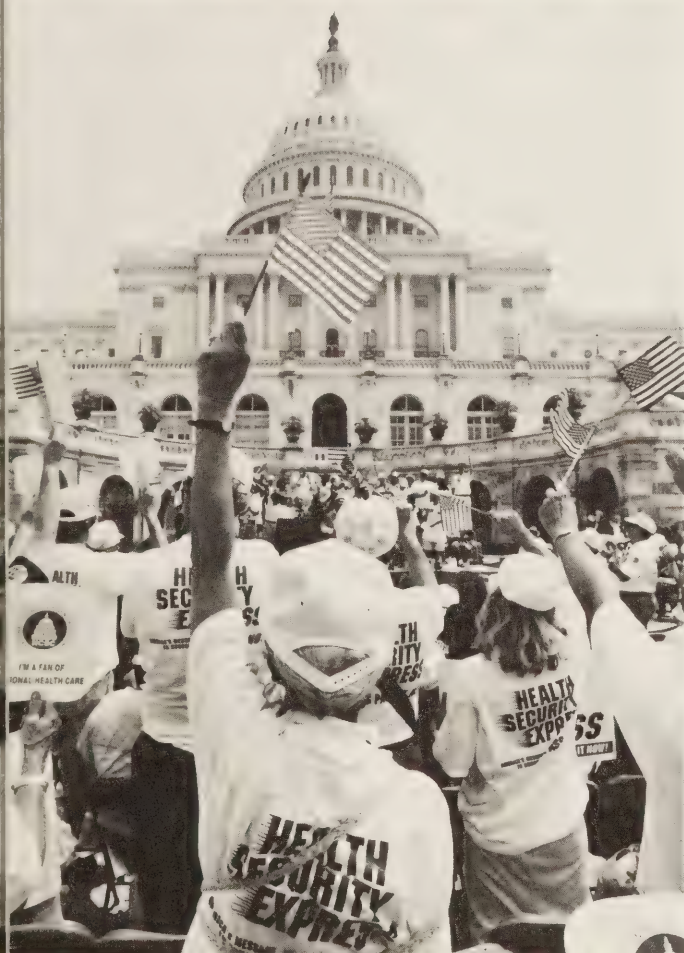

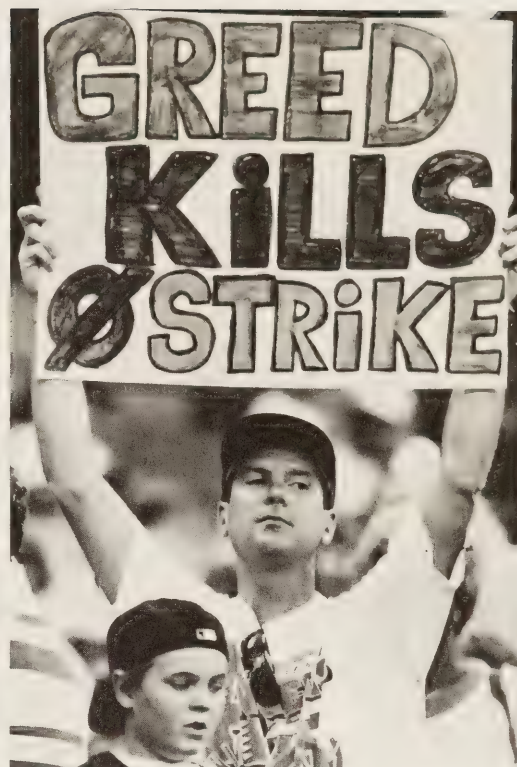

What's Happening Now

Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and King Hussein of Jordan, two men who regarded each other with suspicion for six decades, shook hands this year on the South Lawn of The White House. The two nations had been enemies since the creation of Israel in 1948 following a war between the Jews and the Arabs. Sharing their optimism, President Clinton played host as Rabin and Hussein signed the agreement.

The United States came close to invading Haiti, but at the last minute Haiti's military rulers bowed to the United Nations and promised to cede power to ousted President Jean-Bertran Ariside. Three special U.S. envoys- Former President Jimmy Carter, retired General Colin Powell, and Senator Sam Nunn- struck a deal with General Raoul Cedras and colleagues. About 21,000 U.S. troops eventually landed on the island, followed by an international peace-keeping force, and finally Ariside.

It rained. Thousands crashed the gates. People with tickets couldn't get in or had to wait for hours. Portable toilets overflowed. Food occasionally ran short. Drugs were everywhere. Woodstock '94 looked a lot like the original 1969 rock festival. The itinerary included Joe Cocker, wailing "With a Little Help From My Friends", just like twenty years ago. Janis Joplin and Bob Dylan also performed. When it was over, the rain drenched and mud-covered rockers lumbered home from the sloppy fairgrounds looking like the walking dead-who died smiling.

America was shocked by the news of the arrest of football hero O.J. Simpson in the brutal double-murder of his wife, Nicole Simpson and her friend, Ronald Goldman. The drama unfolded as, instead of turning himself in, O.J. and driver fled in a white Bronco and led police on a low-speed chase along L.A. freeways. Simpson finally returned to his home in West Los Angeles and turned himself in. So began what many called the most famous murder case in American history.

The 1994 baseball season ended with a disappointment to baseball fans. On the 34th day of the major league players' strike, the team owners cancelled the rest of the season, including the playoffs and World Series. America had already suffered through a summer with few games. It would be the first year since 1908 without a World Series. The season floundered on the owners' insistence on capping player salaries. The players refused to go along, went on strike and a little more than a month later, the season was history.

Despite the exhortations of President Clinton and the First Lady, the year ended without significant health insurance reform. In 1993 the President appointed his wife, Hillary Rodham Clinton, to head a health care task force. After extensive hearings and much research, the group produced a proposal that became infamous for its complexity. Sentiment for change seemed to be limited to the minority of Americans who lacked health insurance or feared losing it. There was insufficient support in Congress for the Clinton bill, which called for universal coverage, but the president had promised to veto anything else.

Stephanie Revis and Colia Brown await the end of art class, thus bringing them one period closer to graduating from high school. Many seniors begin counting the days left on the first day of school.

Marisol Laserna models the latest working woman wear at a DECA fashion show. Most seniors involved in DECA are experienced members who provide leadership for underclassmen as well as being involved in early dismissal for work release.

Searching for answers, Stoney Pickett beats himself upside the head with a ruler. He seems to display the overall stressed out feeling that seniors have in their first semester. Looking for colleges, filling out applications, and visiting campuses takes up most any spare time that seniors may have.

In previous years seniors were ominous to underclassmen. This year, however, it seems that seniors get no respect from the younger students. Tasha Allen realizes that this disrespect even happens in the senior hall.

Q

Of all your memories from James Monroe, which is your fondest?

A

"My fondest memory of James Monroe was in eighth grade P.E. class when Coach Green would wear his green and yellow knee socks." -Calandra Deyo

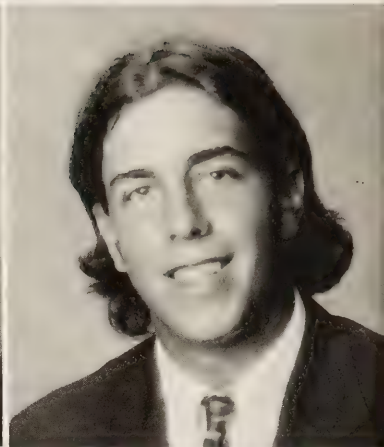

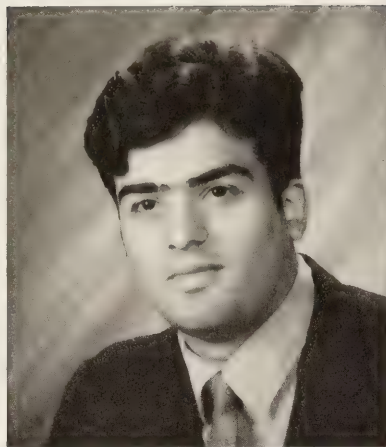

Finding ways to make more time in their days is always on the minds of seniors. Sarah Lowry demonstrates this point perfectly by drinking a healthy lunch of cream of mushroom soup and Arizona iced tea on the go; providing time during her lunch period to do homework.

By the time students are seniors, the many years of sports have caught up with them with aches, pains, and weak joints. Terry Shepherd is one of many seniors who hopes Ms. Marks, the athletic trainer, can make the pain disappear.

This year James Monroe's two foreign exchange students are Tima Khassimikov from Russia and Marek Jansky from the Czech Republic. Although they are not known by everyone, the people who do know them receive a multi-cultural friendship that will last a lifetime.

HIGH FLYERS

Jill Carbaugh and Lee Cherwek were voted Best All-Around. As high flyers, this pair excels in many different areas. Both are great students, tremendous athletes, and also leaders in our school. Lee and Jill seem to be two of the busiest people in school, but they still find the time to pursue personal interests: Lee likes hunting and big trucks, while Jill enjoys reading books upside-down.

HIGH BROW

Have you seen these two? You are most likely to find Jeff Zaidman and Marianna Childress, not in a police lineup, but pursuing interests that will help them to achieve great success. Their dedication to their studies is one reason that they were voted most likely to succeed. Remember these faces in order to recognize them after they become successful, not so you can identify them for the police.

HIGH COLOR

See Ryan draw. See Noy model. Modern art to some may look simple, but one must understand the artist's intentions in order to understand the art. Noy Senevanh and Ryan Epp were voted most artistic. Just remember that beauty is in the eye of the beholder.

HIGH COMEDY

Why does the chicken cross the road? That joke just isn't funny compared to these two clowns. Henry Brown and Niesha Washington are our class clowns. That is not surprising because these jokers can make anyone laugh.

HIGH GRADE

This year's seniors just had too many friendly people, but the seniors were able to narrow it down to the four friendliest: Christina Sydnor, Mike Stevens, Bill Anderson, and Chris Villarreal. As James Taylor would say, "When you're down and troubled and you need a helping hand," just call on these four and your troubles will disappear.

HIGH SOCIETY

If what Polonius said in Hamlet, "The apparel oft proclaims the man," is true, then Meredith Grimmer and Elliot Currie will fit right in with Laertes in gay Paris. As best dressed, Meredith and Elliot probably have the largest closets in Fredericksburg, besides Mrs. Cuddy's shoe closet.

HIGH - SPIRITED

These three characters are often seen at athletic events cheering on team members no matter what the sport. Well, maybe not golf. After starting a wave on the green, Jana Perkins, Jessin Bacon and the team mascot were banned from attending any more golf matches. However, being banned from the golf matches didn't dampen the spirits of our two most spirited seniors.

HIGH-LIGHT

Show them pearly whites! Anne Bridi and George Dickinson are well known for their picture perfect smiles. Some dentist put four children through college, bought a Mercedes, and built a pool because of the best smilers of the class of '95.

HIGH IMPACT

There is a rumor going around that Shawn Ryder and Erin Robinson once were kicked out of the library for their unruly and loud behavior. It can't possibly be true. It is known to everyone that these two are a librarian's dream come true. As the quietest seniors, Shawn and Erin often receive special attention from Mrs. Vandermade and Mrs. Blankenship. Librarian's pets they are.

HIGH FIDELITY

This dynamic duo, if heard together, could permanently ruin a good pair of ear drums. It is no wonder that Dwayne Coleman and Kendra Kosko were voted the loudest. As long as they use their inside voices inside and their outside voices outside, everyone's ear drums should survive them through June 1995.

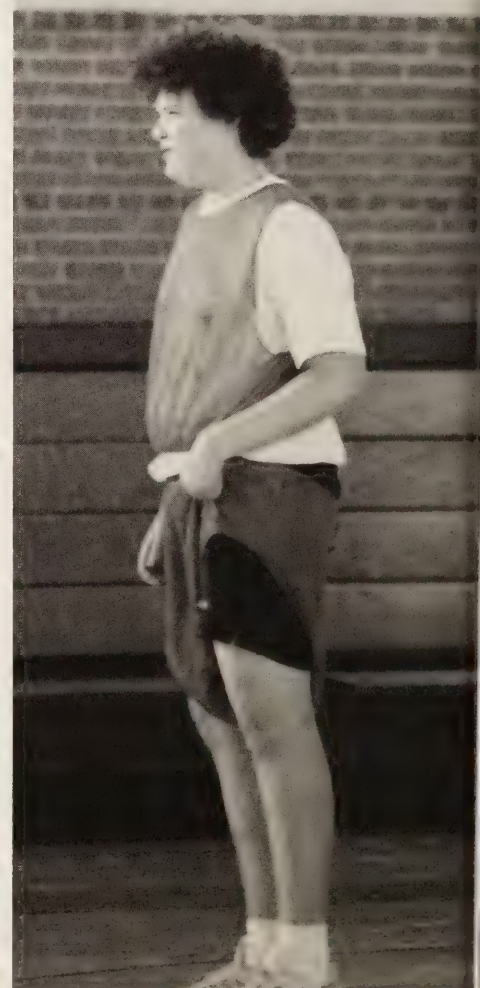

This group of underclassmen, those who are paying attention, show their spirit when the Jayem football team gets a first down. The rest have no clue what's going on.

Snoopy quickly searches for a current event before the bell rings. Maybe, just maybe, if the teacher is late, he will get full credit. We'll keep our fingers crossed.

Stephanie Bellotti laughs at herself as she accidentally paints the table instead of her artwork. As an eighth grader, she chose to take introduction to art for an elective.

Sophomore Roger Hall holds up his jersey as he waits for a pass from his teammate. At least that's what we think he's doing.

Q

If you could change one thing about James Monroe, what would it be? Why?

A

"I'd like to have an option for exam exemption. I think it's a good idea for other schools to have it and it doesn't make sense to take an exam in a class you already have an 'A' in." • Mike Love

Marshelle Harris is in a daze as Ms. Cason puts up yet another overhead. Kristen Edmonds doesn't mind, she is grinning cuz life is good.

Linda Wroten and Melinda Walker crack a smile during the library card sign-up day. This day provided an easy way to get a card from the Central Rappahannock Regional Library.

If you had your choice, what superhero would you be and why?

-Spiderman, because he has a woman and I don't.

-Wolverine, because he has a sense of duty that anyone can respect.

-Wonderwoman, because she looks good in a sequin bathing suit.

-Batman, because he always gets his man.

-The Green Lantern, because he has a cool ring.

Now that you are in the tenth grade, would you rather go forward in time or backwards?

-Forward, because the future is always a mystery.

-Backward, because the hippies really knew how to live.

-Forward, so all the hard decisions would be over with.

-Backward, to see what really happened to Elvis.

-Forward, so I won't have to write my English paper.

-Backward, because life is so much easier as a kid.

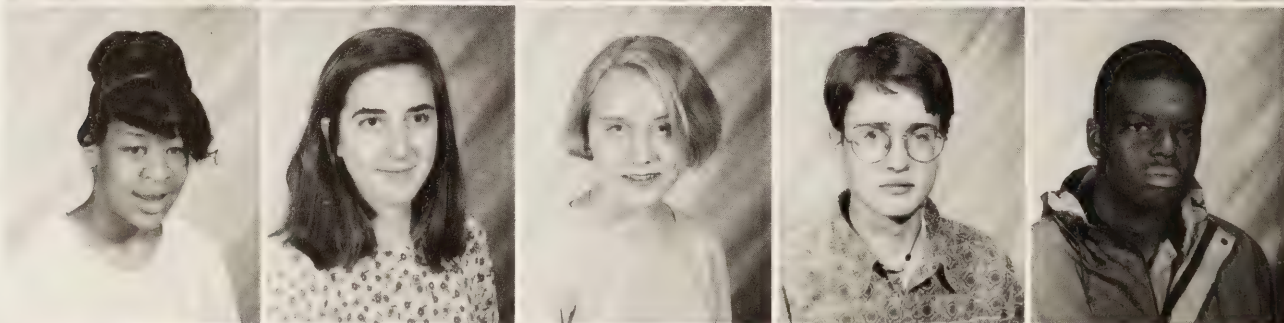

If given the choice to go forward or backward in life, Eric Carbaugh would choose "to go forward, because I want to see what I will become and hopefully I'll be living a successful life."

If you were somehow trapped inside the halls of James Monroe for the weekend, what would you do to pass the time?

-I'd order 10 pepperoni pizzas and charge it to the school's account. (Delivered, of course.)

-Say idiotic things on the intercom.

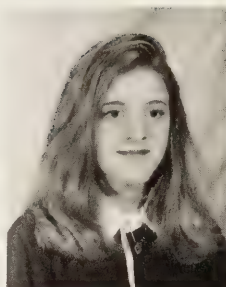

-Just run around yelling like a baby for someone to save me from a personal nightmare.

-Raid the cafeteria!

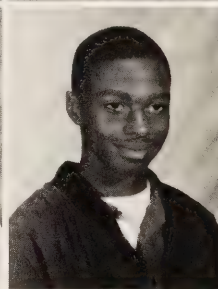

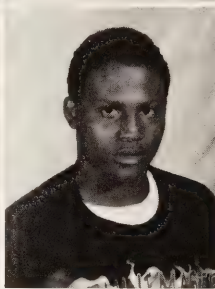

-Get locker combinations from Mrs. Laskowski's office and look through everyone's locker.

It's midnight and your first big English paper is due tomorrow. Your computer just mysteriously erased the entire thing. You have a few notes but they are pretty messy. What do you do?

- Transfer!
- Suddenly become deathly ill.
- Come into class, look really sad, tell the teacher what happened while holding back tears, and ask for an extension.
- PANIC! -then call in sick.
- Put the coffee on.
- Break an arm.
- Freak out. Throw up. And after awhile, do it again.
- Pray, then do it. When it comes out weird, tell your teacher that it is the new style.

If Ladu Pearson had lost his paper, he "... would look at the notes that I had taken and then try to make something out of what I had. If that didn't work, I'd just kill myself."

Q

What made you want to become a teacher?

A

"There are two reasons. One reason is that I had a superb English teacher who influenced me a great deal. The other reason is when I went to college, women had two choices, to be a teacher or a nurse, and I pass out when I see blood. That is the truth. I like teenagers because they are not artificial, have a great sense of humor, and are eager." •Mrs. Cuddy

As classes change, Mrs. Chaves catches up on the morning news. Staying aware of what's going on in the world is an important part of being a teacher.

Mrs. Jones, a veteran of the Fredericksburg City Schools, teaches 9th grade English. She is in her second year here after a long tenure at Walker Grant.

The Enlightenment

Q

What was your most memorable project at James Monroe High School and why?

A

"The 1920's Charlie Chaplin movie project I did my junior year in Mrs. Young's English class with Ryan Epp and T.J. Winston, because we got involved in the roles of the actors." • David Woody

Matt Agee learns about the wonders of women in Family Life.

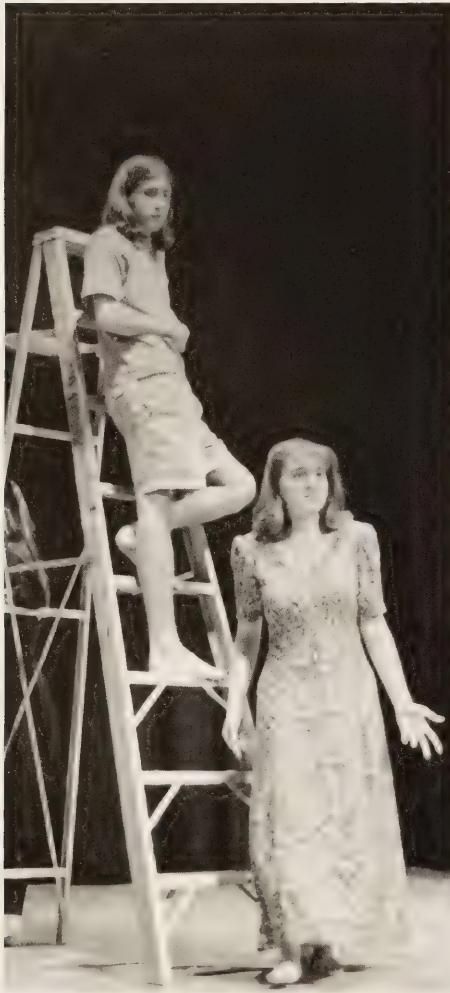

One special event held each year is the blood drive sponsored by the National Honor Society. "I want to suck your blood!"

"Try some Polo, it will make you smell goood," Shakea Francis says to an interested customer on Marketing Education's Leggett Take-Over Day.

ONE ACT

Mrs. Perry set to work in October on this year's One Act Play, "The Diary of Adam and Eve," with her small, three person cast. James Cressey played Adam to Kyla Johnson's Eve. Kristen Kertsos had the pleasure of playing the wicked, sinful snake. The set and costumes were kept to a minimum; the dialogue was to be the focus - the director's decision.

Understudies (necessary as insurance for the show) Nick Rose, Katie Rose, and Sarah Roberts attended practice once a week and came to the competition to lend their support.

Adam and Eve wonder what the future holds for them; what would become of their beautiful garden should evil enter it?

NHS BLOOD DRIVE

Sarah Wheeler, Sarah Lowry, and Meredith Harding support Emily Scott while she recovers from giving blood for the blood drive.

David Blosser finishes the day at the blood drive with a sigh of relief.

In November, the National Honor Society gathered in the auxiliary gym to help with the Red Cross blood drive. The blood drive is an important fundraiser for those in desperate need of blood to live. Each donor gave one pint of blood which is enough to help up to three people. The requirements for donating blood are that one must be seventeen years of age and weigh at least one hundred and ten pounds. An extensive registration process was needed to ensure proper classification of the blood.

After each person completed their donation, they were required to eat cookies and crackers, and to drink sodas in order to replenish their fluids before they were permitted to leave. The long and tiring day left everyone exhausted, but excited and happy that each person saved a life.

African-American Read-In Chain

This year was the fourth year that James Monroe has participated in the African-American Read-In Chain. The program was started six years ago with the goal of increasing awareness of African-American writers and literacy. Participants in this program can range from groups as small as a family or as large as an entire school.

The number of people participating increases each year as more people learn about the program. Last year, this program drew almost 410,000 people, phenomenal considering the program was only in the fifth year. The goal number this year was to get 1 million people involved in the African-American Read-In Chain and for them to hear the works of various authors in various genres.

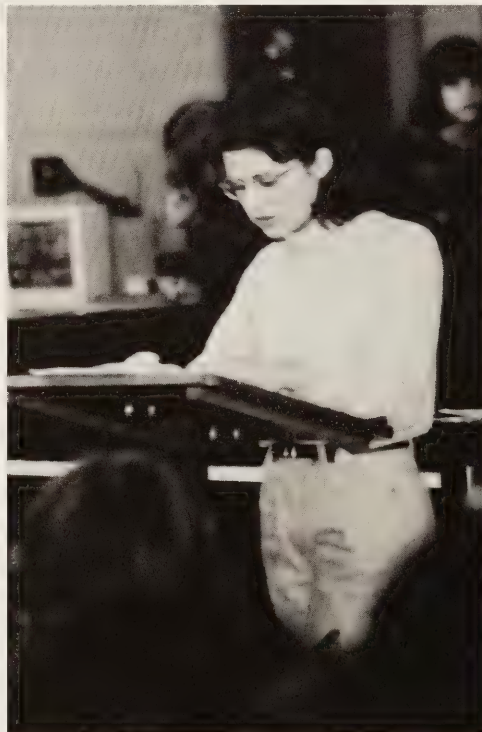

This year, JM students read from the works of African-American authors in both Spanish and English. This helped increase the personal involvement of the students, not only in performance, but generated lots of audience participation. The Girls' Chorus and The Monroe Singers sang entertaining spirituals to lighten the mood and created a diversity of performances. Having accomplished a goal this year by increasing the awareness of African-American authors, the success of this program guarantees its return next year.

Robert Pitchford acts as the typical son while performing his interpretation of "We Real Cool" by Gwendolyn Brooks. Responding to Robert, Mrs. Cordell-Robinson does her rendition of a Langston Hughes poem, "Mother to Son."

"Daddy sang bass, Mama sang tenor" sang LaVonda Minor, Sharon Turner, and Jessin Bacon along with the rest of the Monroe Singers. At the end of each period various spirituals were performed written by African-American authors.

Rhiannon Howell read "Balada De Los Dos Abuelos", "The Ballad of the Two Grandfathers" in Spanish. Each period at least one poem was read by a different Spanish speaking student.

With his performance of "The Creation" by J.W. Johnson, Thomas Brockenbury succeeded in capturing the audience's attention.

High Travel

Liza Matveeva, Roma Volkov, Sergei Zinchenko, Sasha Kouznetsov, Sasha Kasianov, and teacher Mrs. Zviaguintsova.

"I think my favorite thing about America is school because here I can learn more about the life of American people, about children my age," replies Sasha Kouznetsov of his favorite thing in America.

In mid-April five students and one teacher, Sara Rycroft, Jade Gibson, Meredith Grimmer, Sarah Payne, Garrett Taliaferro and Mrs. Savia, left for Russia. Their first week was spent in Moscow before they traveled 14 hours by train to Kaliningrad to their host families and new school for 4 weeks.

James Monroe was one of five schools in the United States to be selected to participate in a Russian exchange program sponsored by the U.S. Information Agency. Five students and a teacher arrived in Fredericksburg on January 28. They spent the next two months living with different host families.

For these fortunate Russian students, this program makes their dream of coming to America a reality. In Russia, classes are very different. They attend school 6 days a week, have about 13 classes and are not permitted to choose their classes. Also, they have only 11 grades instead of 12.

In April, five students and a teacher from James Monroe had the opportunity to spend five weeks in Russia. At the beginning of February, Sarah Payne, Jade Gibson, Meredith Grimmer, Sara Rycroft, and Garrett Taliaferro were selected, along with Mrs. Savia, to travel to Russia. In order to be chosen, all applicants were required to write two essays. When these five JM students reached Kaliningrad, they were assigned individual projects dealing with Russian culture. This was the experience of a lifetime for these students.

When Liza Matveeva was asked about the Russian Foreign Exchange program, she said "I enjoy this program because some months ago it was my only dream to go to the United States. This program made my dream a reality."

"Mannferd J. Krugs" tells the Herbert Hoover High gang "What's Happening". Spencer Sessions as "Mannfred" stole the show.

"Hubs" tries to find out "who knows dis here Forrest guy" in order to protect his sister Marilyn.

"Forrest" tells the rest of the jocks how easy it is to have two girlfriends at one time but, "Ya just gotta know how to handle women!"

Herbert Hoover's peppy twins "Marygale" and "Sally Kay", played by Kyla Johnson and Jill Carbaugh, get their team psyched up for their big game against Wilten City.

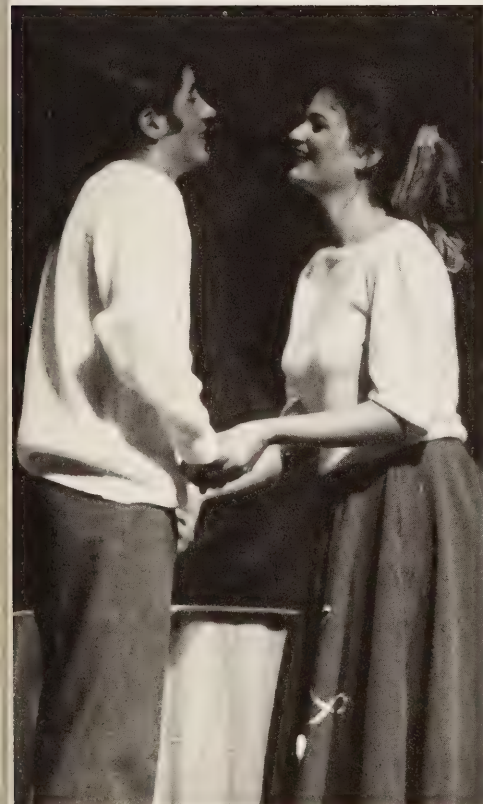

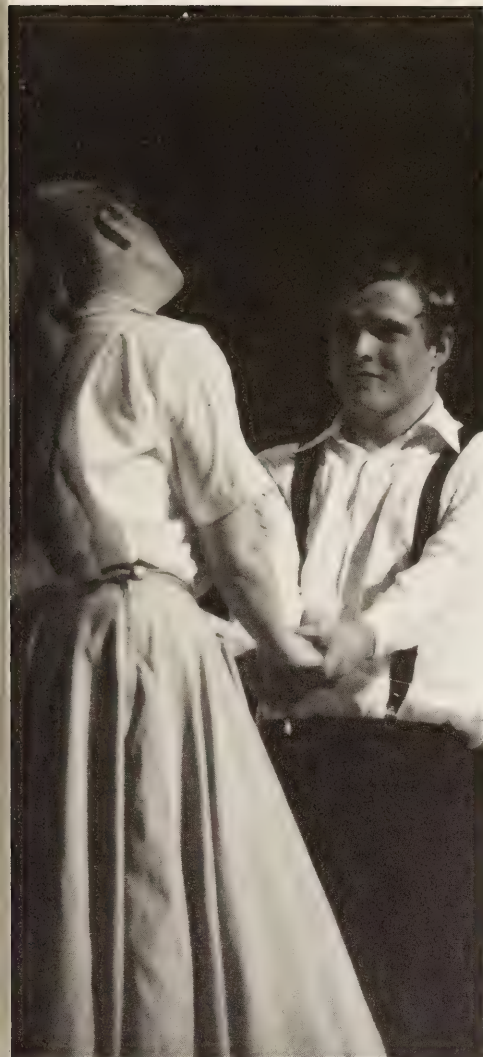

HIGH STAGE

On March 24 the class of 1995 opened their senior musical with a 50's style comedy called Rock & Roll. The play is set in Pop's Pop Shop. As the curtain rises, "Sapphire" (Michelle Nichols) is seen singing "Surfside In the Golden Summer."

The story is a very stereotypical high school setting with the three main cliques being the Nerds, led by "Corndoggie" (James Cressey), the Jocks, led by "Forrest" (Henry Brown), and the Rally Club Girls, led by "Betsy Lou" (Kristen Kertsos). The show portrays the classic love triangle between "Betsy Lou", "Corndoggie" and "Forrest"; yet no love triangle can be without a little interference from the outside. This interference comes from "Pops" (Garrett Taliaferro) and "Da Wheels," Wilten City High School's motorcycle gang, led by "Hubs" (George Dickinson).

This group of 53 very talented seniors not only memorized lines and lyrics to songs, they also learned how to dance 50's style thanks to the choreography of Jana Perkins. As for the finished product...Look out Broadway!

Jessin Bacon's "Duffy" realizes he's in love with Jennifer Lorin Brown's "Bumpers", and "Oh Man Oh Man Oh Man, is it great to be in love!"

After realizing that her "Corndoggie" did not stand her up, he really saved her life, "Betsy Lou" forgives him and they "go steady" again.

In the finale the cast cries out to "Pops" for "Eats", then they take their bows and the curtain closes on yet another Senior Play.

ACADEMICS

THE HIGHEST STANDARD

Academics provide the basis for our future. Without the knowledge that we gain everyday, we would not be able to achieve the high goals set by our society. James Monroe, who leads the area in AP courses offered, received state-wide recognition for its challenging curriculum. In addition, compared to other schools in the region, James Monroe has the highest SAT score average.

Everyday in the classroom, students are on their best behavior. Well, most of the time. Despite minor mishaps, class continues, learning flourishes, and James Monroe students continue their climb to success.

Everyday Events: Once upon a time, Eppa White, upset at Mr. Cralle, stuck his tongue out. This caused...

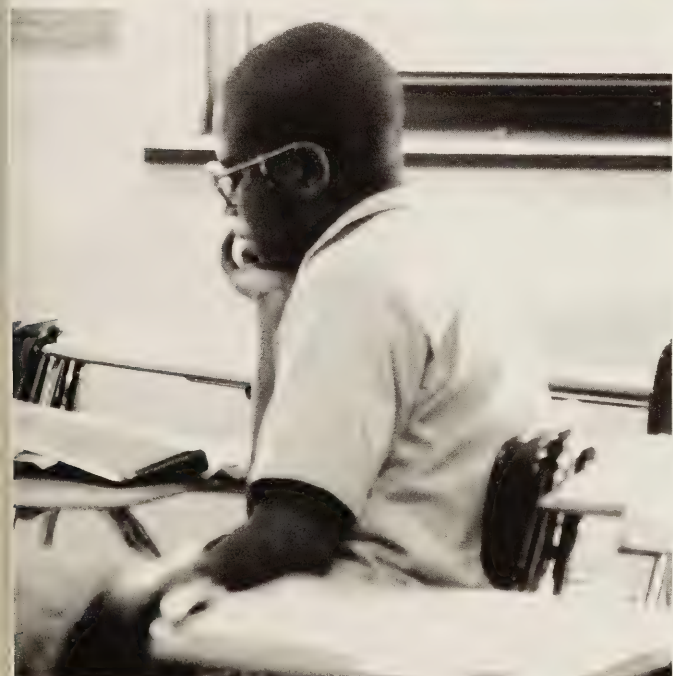

...a massive explosion of sodium and water. After all, why should a teacher put up with any disrespect?

Mr. Cralle, teaching his class a new lesson, is disturbed and upset by Eppa's actions. He shows him the way out...

...while Jeff Zaidman, oblivious to the situation, runs a hand through his hair and thinks 'Wow! I should have had a V8.'

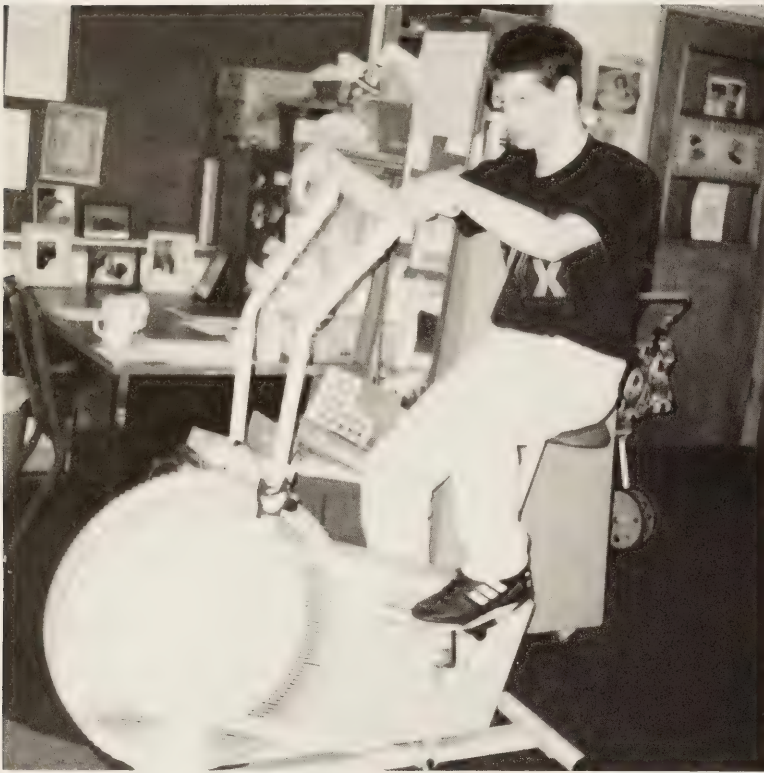

...and Carla Ware ignores her reading assignment to catch the action. Meanwhile...

...the distraction that Katie Rose causes by laughing loudly.

Calvin Minor continues to cram for an upcoming test, despite...

HIGHLY POSSIBLE

One of Jeffrey Hall's favorite leisure activities is the exercise bike.

Mrs. Crismon has fun with Courtney Price during Adaptive Physical Education.

Jeffrey Hall spends time each week in Ms. Harris' math class.

Courtney Price plays basketball using the computer.

Courtney Price and Jeff Hall enjoy visiting the office and talking to Mrs. Winn and Mrs. Robinson.

The multi-disabled class at James Monroe involves a variety of students who receive personalized instruction. The program encourages increased communication and personal independence. This process involves special education teacher Ms. Sandy Bull, as well as a variety of school personnel. Students attend adaptive PE with Mrs. Crismon and speech therapy with Ms. Daly.

Since communication is an integral part of the classroom, a variety of assistive technology is utilized. The class has a computer with a talking powerpad and a touch window. Many learning discs are used. A portable communicator is available for community-based instruction. All students can communicate using words, signs, sounds or facilitative communication.

Self-help skills are always stressed, as are pre-vocational activities. The class has participated in a variety of community-based activities. McDonalds is the favorite "eating out" place and all love to visit the mall to spend their money. The class has gone bowling, to the movies, the park, the recycling center and has visited friends in other special needs programs.

The students in Ms. Bull's class are kind, hardworking and loving, and are an integral part of James Monroe High School.

VOCATIONAL

Deon McKenney and Wade Henderson take a brake from fixing cars to ask Mr. Taylor about a lesson from the book.

Vocational classes are buzzing at James Monroe this year.

Mr. McFall teaches Computing Systems and Graphic Communications. His courses expose students to a variety of technology and communication skills. He feels that the most important part of his job is providing a positive role model who reflects integrity and responsibility.

Mr. Taylor teaches Maintenance and Repair. In this course, students learn what Mr. Taylor feels is the most important information - skills for future employment, home, and community life.

Carpentry and Cabinet Making is taught by Mr. Young. This course gives students a marketable skill which they can use to find employment.

Mrs. Griffin teaches Accounting and Intro to Business. In these classes, students are introduced to the different forms of business ownership and basic accounting skills. They also explore banking, insurance, and learn how to prepare simple tax forms.

DECA is taught by Mrs. Tremblay. DECA teaches students marketing skills such as dealing with customers, displaying merchandise, and how to be successful in the retail industry.

Students learn by a hands on approach in Mrs. Lovegrove's Hotel Hospitality Management class. They experience each position in the hotel while spending two periods a day there. All of these courses provides students with experience for entering the work force.

Stacy Berry and Tara Richardson work hard on their offset press, making notepads.

Denise Brooks ignores the camera and concentrates on blocking out her screen printing for a T-Shirt.

Mark Foley demonstrates his auto expertise as he prepares to check the oil in the car.

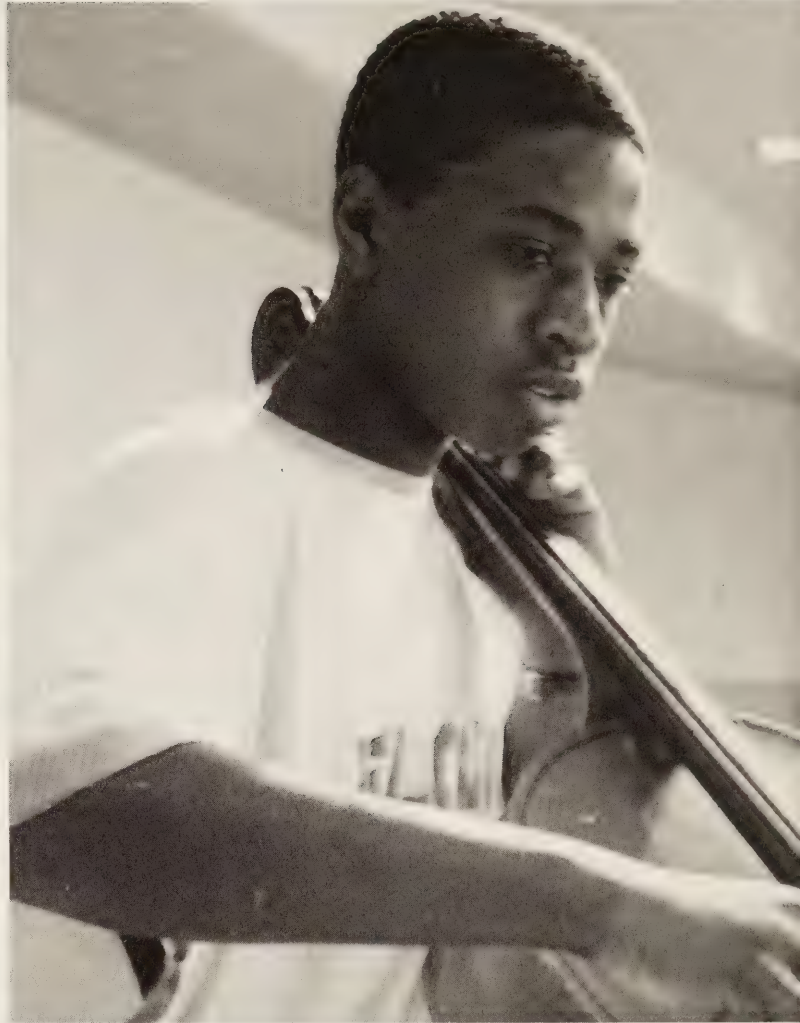

Felica Shelton proudly models a successful and sporty business suit. Dressed for success, this future CEO has what it takes to wow any Board of Directors.

As one may tell from experiencing the average class of art, drama, band, orchestra, or any one of the vocational courses, fine arts are really more of an unrefined activity: a recreation more than a class. This has a lot to do with the people who take the classes, and with the fact that, in the performing arts, there is more to the class than tests and exams. Refining dramatic skills, and fine-tuning the sounds of individual voice or instruments requires amazing amounts of work and dedication that, ironically, because all that are involved are so sincere to the subject, a beautiful medley of talent is presented to the public, adding to the notability of our school.

At the same time, there is still the individual achievement factor. The Jayem band and orchestra strive to make Central Virginia Youth Orchestra; Drama students work toward a part in the All-District One-Act play; and the choral students anxiously await tryouts for the All-District Chorus. Still, although many of their individual talents are not pinpointed by all, there is no finer art than Art itself: the chance for an individual to express his or her self on paper, resulting in many different views of society, progress and the world itself.

Whether it is combining talents to create an ensemble of sound, or an Oscar-winning performance, or if it is turning out the masterpieces of our young Picassos, the Fine Arts department keeps the students of James Monroes spellbound and intensely high strung.

Allison Graves and Jamie Harris go by the philosophy "two heads are better than one."

All is peaceful as the "brothers" in Mens' Chorus come together and sing.

Betsy Harris stands and explains the importance of peace between the Indian and the White Man to the children of her tribe.

The Clarinet section warms up as they prepare to join the rest of the band for practice.

There's an aura of silence as Seth Villhauer progresses in another masterpiece.

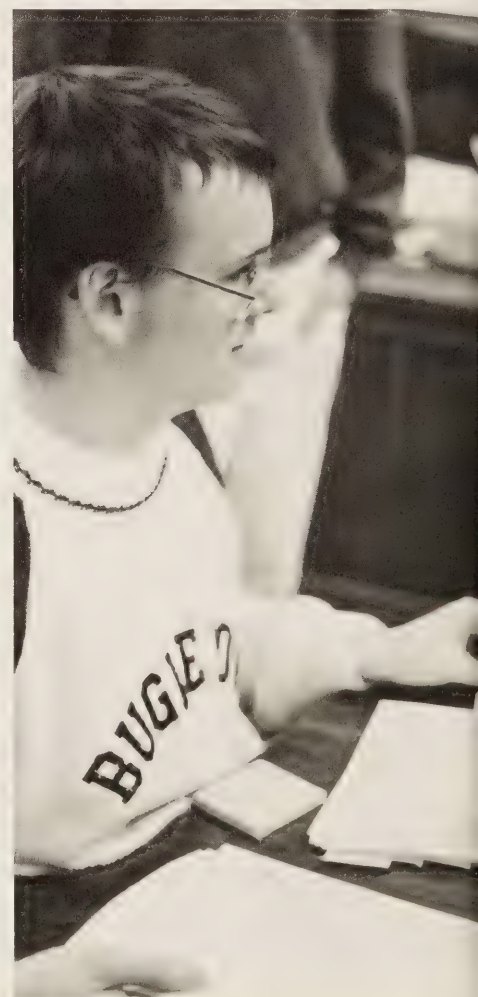

Chess is more than just a game to these serious players. Manarsi Bhattacharya and Matt Palmieri think long and hard before making their moves.

Katie Rose, A.K.A. Dionysus, tries to think of the perfect wine to serve with the immaculate lasagna that chef Suzanna Bobadilla has prepared.

After a wonderful day out on the town, German Club members and Frau Kelly anxiously await for their bus to pick them up for their return trip home. Field trips play an integral role in all clubs.

Bernie Newton, an eighth grader, is an active member of the Basilisk staff. The Basilisk is Jayem's creative writing magazine which includes various pieces of student's writing and art and is published every spring.

The French horn proves to be an instrumental part of every band.

Lynette Wagner and friends take a break from all the action at the Foreign Language Mardi Gras banquet. This was the first year the banquet was held, and it was a huge success.

The members of the color guard are "2 Legit 2 Quit!" This year the color guard was extremely independent. They came up with many of their own routines.

Jason Collett, who earned regional honors this year, and Larry Fairchild keep the beat for the James Monroe Marching Band. Because of this increase of the percussion section, they were able to perform "Nightcrawler."

The drill team's first performance ever was during a football pep rally where they danced to "The Horse."

Chess, CSG, SADD, Young Republicans

SADD's message to society is that there are life-threatening dangers involved in drunk driving, and that life can be enjoyed without alcohol. On Dead Day, SADD members dressed in black, painted their faces and did not speak all day to remind the students of JM of all the deaths caused by drunk driving.

ATHLETICS

What sports figure inspires you to be all that you can be and why?

A

"Vince Lombardi, because he was a very disciplined coach. He believed in hard work, dedication, commitment, and loyalty. He was also a great football coach and that makes him a natural choice."

• Coach Serbay -Athletic Director

Joseph Hooper makes an attempt to chip the golf ball onto the green. Hey Joey, are you sure that you are not supposed to be facing the other green? The record this year for the golf team was 4-6.

For the James Monroe football team, the 1994 season was an improved one. With a record of 6-4 the team seemed to have been on a football high this fall. Nathaniel Cox displays this feeling as he bowls over the defense in a joint effort to pick up yardage.

This season was an exciting one for both players and fans. The team gave fans thrill after thrill with great games such as the fantastic wins over two arch rival schools, Courtland and Chancellor. Needless to say, all of the excitement began with the first game of the season, a 46-35 win over Charlottesville.

Still, like any team, Jayem had downfalls. Unfortunately, one of them came during the Homecoming game against King George. Both the fans and the players thought that the game had already been won by Jayem, until an impossible pass and catch in the endzone at the very last second gave King George the win by three points.

Through the good and bad times, the team gave football their all and continued to demonstrate their dedication. Among these dedicated members were the seniors Larry Robinson, Carlos French, Nathaniel Cox and Stoney Pickett. Rising to the occasion for next year are the upcoming seniors

Robert Armstead, Donnie Johnson, Alonzo Lucas, Jimmy Durante, and Paul Kosko. Next year will be the fourth year with Coach Serbay (above) for many players. This fact, along with the climbing success rate of the team, caused Coach Serbay to say, "I must be doing something right."

Congratulations are certainly in order for the 1994 Varsity football team. They definitely earned the title as Tough City Boys. Good Luck next season, guys.

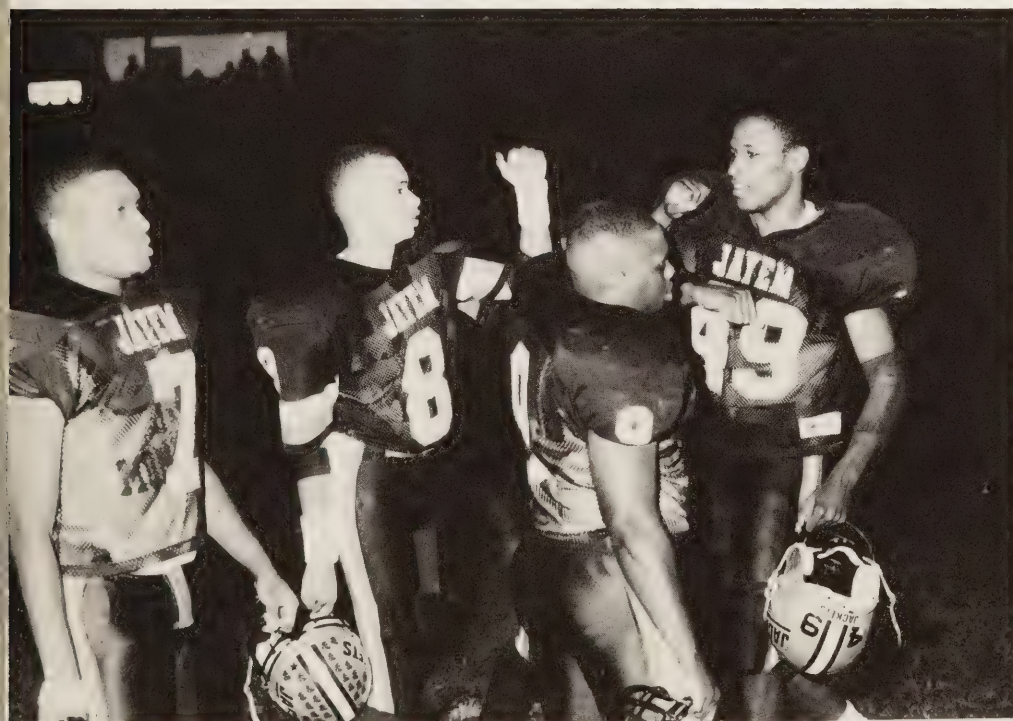

Paul Kosko demonstrates what true team spirit should look and sound like Daryl Greer and Robert Armstead congratulate each other on yet another long yardage completion which eventually resulted in a TD.

Warning: Highly Contagious Spirit

Being a cheerleader requires skill, agility, and most of all enthusiasm. The James Monroe varsity football cheerleading squad possessed all of these qualities. The 1994 team was captained by three year veteran Kim Carson and co-captained by Choy Senevanh. With the leadership of Coach Mary Crismon, the cheerleaders had a contagious effect on the football players who had a wonderful season.

These young ladies practiced hard three days a week from 3:30-5:30 throughout the entire season. Not only were these girls responsible for cheering at both home and away games, but also for decorating the halls each week and preparing pep-rallies for the student body to enjoy. At the pep rallies, the cheerleaders did stunts, dances, and led cheering activities for each grade level. These ladies have earned themselves much thanks and appreciation for keeping the school spirit alive.

The James Monroe Varsity Field Hockey team had another phenomenal season this year, finishing up with a 13-3 overall record. These girls were led enthusiastically by 12 seniors, including captains Jill Carbaugh and Sallie Corbin, and guided to victory by Coach Hollibaugh and Coach Mann.

The Field Hockey season began August 15th with a grueling pre-season that whipped everybody into shape. Long runs and sprints, including the legendary Taco Bell Hill and painful Pitt Street, helped groom them for competition. The Jackets came out strong, outscoring their competition 28-1 in their first five games which enabled the team to start off the season on the right foot.

Meredith Harding led the scoring rampage for the Jackets making 18 out of 59 goals this season. The rest of the forward line did an excellent job evenly distributing the remaining goals. Defensive standouts were senior Kendra Kosko and sophomore Jamie Harris. Kendra, who held the position of goalie, had 9 shut-outs this year, which helped contribute to her best season yet. Jamie, a sweeper, was not only an exceptional defensive player, but also netted 6 goals.

The JM hockey team is known for its high spirits and continuous cheering. In the second annual Battlefield District Tournament, JM once again reached the final round. Although they came up short in the end, they played picture perfect hockey to get there. They rolled over Spotsylvania 6-0 in the semi-final game. These girls will be rarin' to go next year!

JUMPBALL

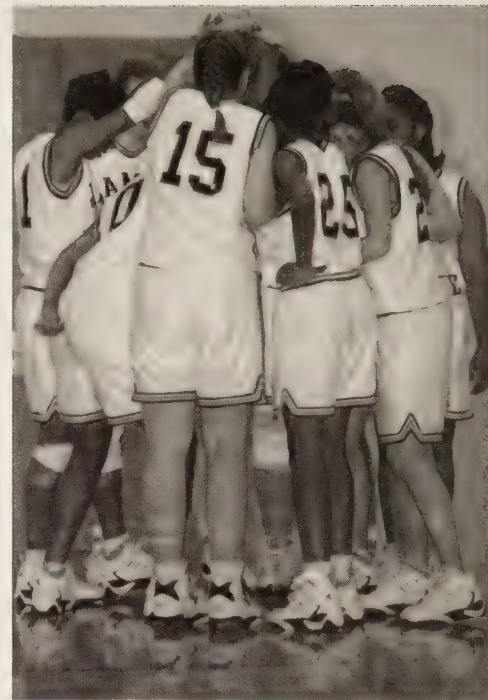

Basketball is not a game of defense for some and offense for others, but a game of defense and offense for every player on the team. So one can't just learn the skills for defense and not offense or vice versa; the player must learn to play both. The Lady Jackets demonstrated these skills while soaring to new heights this year.

With Coach Julian Bumbrey and captains Beth Richard and Tasha Allen, the ladies dribbled, shot, and scored their way to the play-offs. A lot of hard work and dedication was put into the team by Coach Bumbrey and the players. The top scorer for the season was Beth Richard. Only a junior, Beth shows great potential for the year to come.

The team as a whole is very young so hopes continue to rise for the future. The interest in the girls' basketball team is on the rise and will keep growing in the years to come.

“We struggled this past year and we had a fun time, but we'll be back next year!”
-Antoinette Allen

Starting in late June, the Cross Country team was put on a schedule of twenty minute runs 3 times a week and swimming or another cardiovascular exercise 3 times a week. This conditioning gradually increased during the summer. All of this early exercise really paid off. Once the season began, the team met every afternoon at either the YMCA, the Battlefield, or here at JM, where Coach Calloway sent them on 3 to 5 mile runs.

The teams' hard work really paid off in the season. The boys ended up sixth in the district. Even though the girls had to struggle through the season at dual and tri-meets with only 4 to 5 runners, they placed fifth in the district.

This year's outstanding runners were Lubert Lewis, who placed twelfth in the state, Kevin VanLear and Jonathan Bushman. Standouts on the girls' team were Beth Richard, Kendra Kosko, and Sarah Lowry. The team had two talented 8th graders to watch for in the future, Nathaniel Johnson and Anne (Tooter) Payne.

"Golf is a good walk ruined." - Mark Twain

Although the least recognized of James Monroe's athletic programs, golf is, as those who play it will tell you, an addiction. It was Winston Churchill who said: "Golf is a game of attempting to put a small ball into a small hole with weapons singularly ill-designed for the purpose." No golfer will dispute this, for 99% of the time it is basically true. It is that one arbitrary, perfect shot, however-that drive, approach, or putt-that makes us keep coming back to that 200 acre purgatory--the golf course.

This is also the reason that the James Monroe golf team keeps coming back to the Country Club every August to begin another season of play.

This year the team was led collectively by seniors Patrick Smith, Jennifer Brown, Elliot Currie, and Jeff Zaidman, and followed closely (and competitively) by the team's underclassmen. The team's final record was 6 wins and 4 losses, which although seems average was difficult enough to attain. Coach Chip Sudduth hopes that the team will maintain and improve the quality of its golf in the years to come.

SERBAY'S UPCOMING BOYS

For the Jayem Junior Varsity football team, this fall concluded with another winning season for the second year in a row. Reggie Ellis, a linebacker and a tightend, played well on both offense and defense, and Tony Fairchild, who played well on both offense and special teams were among the players who contributed the most. According to Coach Young, "The strong point of the team was our defense. For the first few games, no one scored on us. Our defense kept us in every game this year." It is no doubt the JV team is our troop in training, stepping closer to Varsity with every game.

The newest additions to the team are Jayem's young eighth graders who are both talented and tough.

JV players gather round to prepare themselves to do the "touchdown dance" after scoring off a pass into the endzone.

The JV football cheerleaders enthusiastically cheer the JV football team to a Jacket Victory.

The JV cheerleaders may have fewer members than last year, but that does not mean that they have any less spirit. Starting in late August, the James Monroe cheerleading squad began preparing for the football season. They began practice with harsh stretching and afterwards practiced the cheers which would be later used to pump up the Jacket fans. The five JV cheerleaders were led by captain Cija Kenyon and coached by Mary Crismon. In the football season of 1994, the squad seemed to cheer to new heights as the spirit of James Monroe was stronger than ever.

JV Field Hockey

Under two new coaches, Coach Shellhorse and Coach Robnolt, the JV Hockey team suffered only one loss this season. With a 6-1-5 record, they improved each game, finishing up strong with two wins against Chancellor and King George.

These girls were again led by enthusiastic co-captains Cary Call and Courtney Chinn. Sophomores Sarah Chewing and Katie Rose, who played the JV teams left and right wings, guided the forward line to 14 goals this season. Lauren Douglas and Sarah Anne Fuller worked together to form a dynamic duo on offense. Veteran goal keeper Lisa Kertsos and the defense, including Sophomore Mandy Pickett, Freshman Sarah Jacob, and eighth-grader Kristen Northern, held the opposition to only 6 goals.

For the majority of the season, the team was plagued with injuries causing four people to be sidelined. Two of them returned for the last couple of games, but until then, the team was short a few subs. Because of the shortage of players, Kristen Northern and Sarah Chinn, two eighth graders were promoted from the freshmen team to the JV team to help out.

Enthusiasm was at a high for these girls. During the Varsity Battlefield District Tournament that was held at Maury Stadium, four JV's demonstrated their spirit by forming the Bees. They wore wings and started cheers for the fans to follow, psyching up the crowd.

The JV team will hopefully have another successful season next year. Although it will lose quite a few players, many eighth-graders will be ready for competition, having a year's experience under their belt.

"We're gonna win! We're gonna win!" The JV Hockey team cheers during half-time of the King George hockey game. Sure enough, they won.

J.V. Girls' Basketball

The James Monroe junior varsity girls' basketball team continued this year in climbing the ladder of success. Though the climb may have been slow, it was steady. In winning three games this year, their hard work has paid off. "Improvement was the key to our success," said Elizabeth Zirkle. They practiced hard and concentrated more on their game play, and by the end, they had improved. Though they were not number one, the success ladder's next step awaits them next year, as the future looks bright.

HIGH TIDE

For the second year, James Monroe's swim team has continued to show their abilities in the pool, both at meets and practices at Mary Washington College. Since the practices have been moved from morning to night, the swim team has found more energy to survive their long and tiring workouts. Under the leadership of swimming and singing dynamic duo, Delwyn Jones and Beth Richard, the swim team kept a record-setting pace.

The boys, though small in number, were plentiful in talent. They proved the theory, "quality, not quantity." Although they won the majority of the events at each meet, the boys simply lacked the depth needed to earn those crucial points to win.

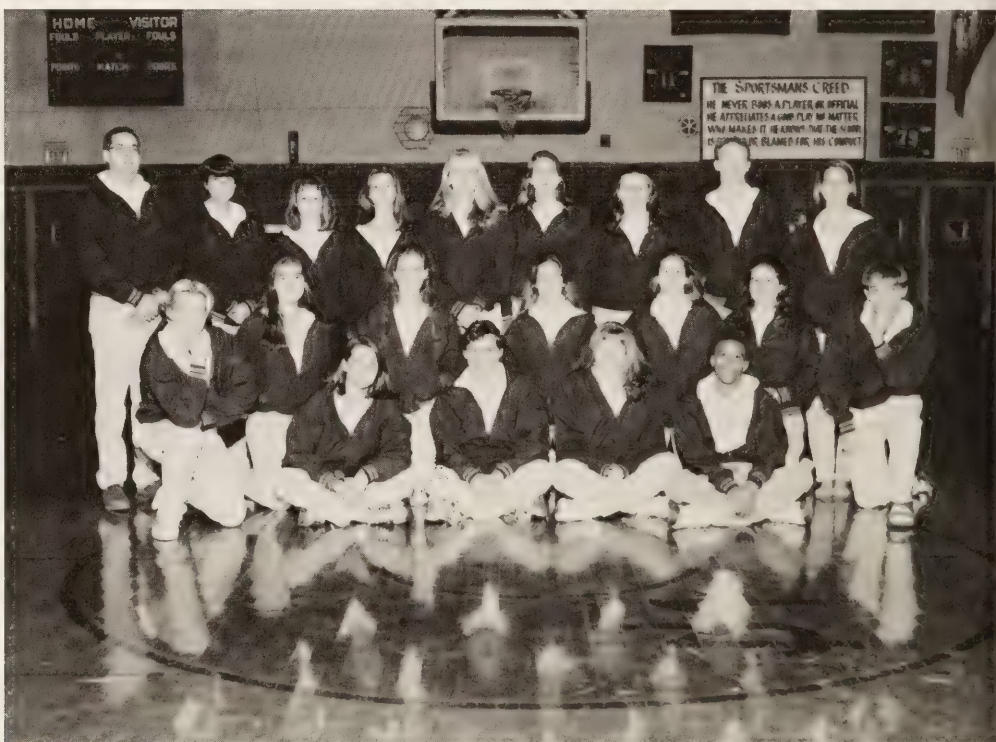

The girl's team, on the other hand, had both quality and quantity to make for an outstanding year, posting a record of 2-3-1. Several talented swimmers and enough depth provided by the younger girls helped to make the team competitive within the league.

Coach Young and Coach O'Toole guided the swim team through rigorous practices, Monday through Thursday, in order to prepare them for the League Championships. With their encouragement, the entire team improved tremendously since the first practice in November.

The swim team only lost four seniors this year and will hopefully gain many new freshmen for next season. With these new swimmers and a lot of dedication, the swim team will return as powerful as ever. Ooh, alay, alay...Jackets!

"I feel that our team has improved because of the experience we have on our team, also our motivation to win." -Chris Flowers

The James Monroe Varsity Basketball team, under the tutelage of Coach Fred Hamn, worked hard this year, as they do every year, to get their skills close to perfection. The Varsity team was much younger this year with two seniors, nine juniors, and a freshman. Senior forward Henry Brown had this to say about the age difference, "I think that this does make a difference because with the experience the seniors have, the underclassmen can learn from the time that we spend with the team and the loyalty and dedication we have put forth."

The team may not have had the best of seasons, but they still held their heads up high and were even more persistent to make their presence known on the basketball court. Coach Hamn felt that the team got off to a good start, "Despite our

2-3 start in district play, we have made some very big strides this year. Coming from a 27 point losing deficit per game last year, to being in every game to the final minute this year. In other words, we are in the thick of things." The biggest win so far this season came during the Jayem-Courtland game in which the score was 68-62. Sidney Hankerson led the game with 18 points.

Throughout the season, Juniors Trey Dabney, Joseph Ellis, Sidney Hankerson, and Mike Watson led the team in scoring. With Trey averaging 18.5 points, Sidney averaging 18 points, Joseph averaging 14.6 points, and Mike rounding out "The Fab Four" with 10 points a game, these guys proved that they hustle on the court during games as well as off the court during practice.

This year's cheerleading team did a high-flying performance in getting the crowd on their feet and cheering for the basketball team. With the leadership of Mrs. Crismon and captains Dana Butry and Kristen Kertsos, the team's performance this year was exceptional. With practices on Mondays and Wednesdays from 3:30 to 5:30 PM, they stayed limber and fit, not to mention running one mile every Monday to stay in shape.

Besides the help of Mrs. Crismon, much thanks to the cheerleading success is due to new cheers provided by Gretchen Blankenship, Mrs. Blankenship's daughter and former Courtland cheerleader. These new cheers gave the fans a new and refreshing change from the usual cheers. This allowed the James Monroe crowd to get more involved with the games.

In perfect synchronization, the cheerleaders lift their hands in victory. "V-I-C-T-O-R-Y, VICTORY, VICTORY, That's our cry!"

This year, the Jayem cheerleaders performed many difficult stunts, including the elevator lift, as seen here with Heather Bryant, Nicole Williams, and Minnie Coleman.

Co-captains Kristen Kertsos and Dana Butry liven up the crowd up with an enthusiastic chant.

Heather Bryant says of her cheerleading job, "I feel that we get the crowd into the game when the team needs it the most."

THE HIGH BAR

Throughout the 1994-1995 season, the James Monroe gymnastics team grew not only in size but in strength and agility as well. They practiced every day after school until 5:30, which some could say was the secret to their improved performances. But they could not have done it without the help of Stan Brooks, their manager. Coached by Valerie Williams and Smith Coleman and captained by Kim Carson, the team was exposed to much positive leadership and experience.

Among the best all-around gymnasts on the team were Kim Carson, Tanya Stewart, and Laura Maniscalco. According to the coaches, Kim Carson was said to be the best on the vault, bars, and floor, while Laura Maniscalco was the best on the balance beam. Though the girls did not win any of their meets, their performances improved and friendships were formed. Many of the girls plan on returning next season and the coaches anticipate another year of positive growth and individual improvement.

The season for the JV Yellow Jackets was full of thrills and kept fans buzzing with excitement. Each game had highlights of its own, especially their 23 point win over Orange and their 20 point win over King George. With leading scorers Doug Farrington, averaging eight points a game, and Bart Douglas and Tony Fairchild, both averaging seven points a game, they showed that persistence, hard work, and dedication paid off.

Coach Bumbrey had this to say about the season, "I think overall we had a great season; yes, there were a few disappointments, like when Reggie Ellis got moved up to Varsity and when Ricardo Edwards re-injured his knee." Coach Bumbrey expects a better season next year because the players will be more experienced.

JV cheerleaders lead the crowd in chanting the school's initials: "J.M.H.S."

This year's Junior Varsity Cheerleading team was extremely busy learning new cheers and perfecting new stunts.

The J.V. Cheerleading squad practiced every Monday and Wednesday from 3:30 to 5:30 P.M. They began practice with the Varsity cheerleading team, learning new cheers and working on stunts. The J.V. squad worked then separate from varsity and finalized the quarter cheer, time-out cheer, and the half-time cheer and stunt.

"The squad this year had incredible talent and enthusiasm," said Coach Johnson. Even though practice was very tedious, the girls always found time to have fun. The hardest part about J.V. cheerleading was trying to come up with good stunts with such few people on the squad.

This season the James Monroe Yellow Jackets Varsity baseball team had a 3-15 record. Though the record does not reflect it, this year's team was one of the hardest working teams that has played the game. They were led by Seniors Ryan Smith, Chris Swann, and Ryan Neraasen. With the leadership of these seniors, and the younger stars of the team, the Jackets became a team to deal with.

The young team had several standouts this year. One of whom was Robbie Simms, the pitcher, who had three of our five wins, and he also pulled his weight with the bat. Robbie was awarded All-District, second team at third base. Another young standout was Junior Mark Robbins. He let nothing fall in the outfield, and he too pulled the weight with his bat. For his efforts he was awarded All-District, First team centerfield. Senior Ryan Smith was awarded MVP, for his leadership behind the plate, and Donnie Johnson got the incentive award for his great playing in the outfield, and his performance at the plate.

This young team was lead by first year coach Craig Lopez. Along with Lopez came much experience from the big leagues. He took his knowledge and has started his way to forming what he hopes will be one of the best teams in the district. With the talent James Monroe is bringing, that might not be that far away. Coaching along with Lopez were Coaches Hamn, Hanes, Blackburn, and Mac. All of the coaching on the field this year really helped the Jackets to mature on their game, and to play up to their potential.

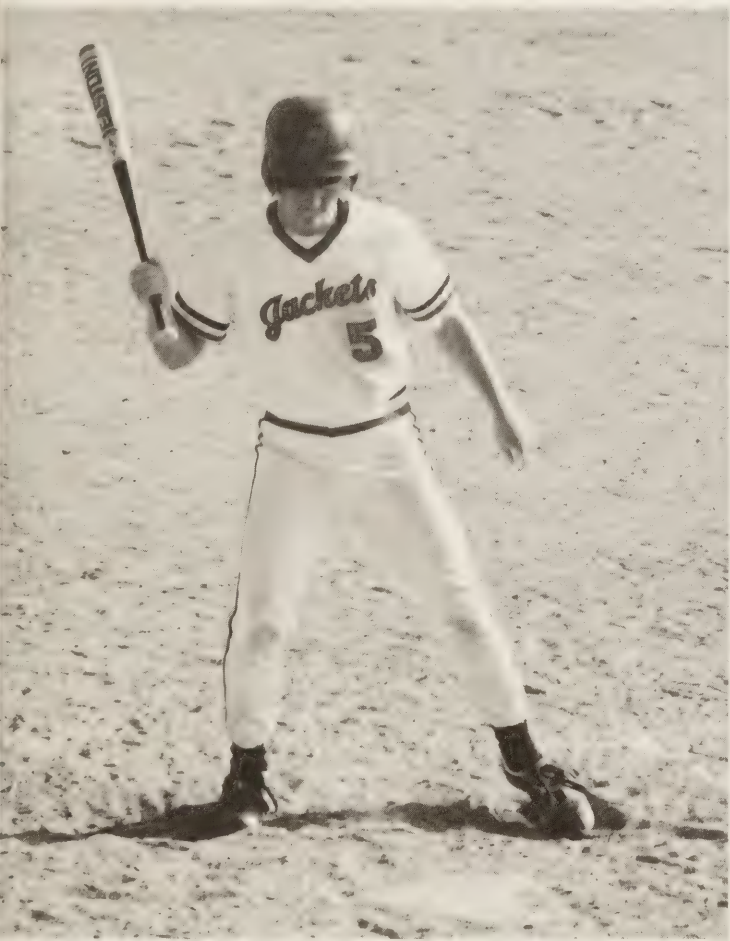

The program is young now but under the leadership of Coach Lopez and Staff, it will become the team of the district.

Chris Swann and Robbie Simms enthusiastically cheer their teammate on to second base.

Jaime Castro demonstrates the perfect pitch, which helped the Jackets to better their record last year.

Softball

With consistent effort and enormous team spirit, the James Monroe "Lady Jackets" softball team has risen to become one of the most improved teams in the Battlefield District. The team spent many a day traveling to away make-up games that were caused by bad weather in the spring. This did not allow the "Lady Jackets" much practice time due to four games a week. By the end of the season, the softball team posted a 4-13 record. Although it was a losing season, the record did not show the true determination of all the team members.

Chakea Francis, the Varsity Jackets starting centerfielder, displays the perfect form for throwing the ball.

Courtney Chinn, a starting JV freshman, leaps to catch the ball for the final out.

Cristina Sponseller awaits the ball to make the third out for JM so that the next inning can begin.

High Pitched Racquet

Under the guidance of Head Coach Cindy VanderBerg, the Lady Jackets soared to a second place finish in the Battlefield District. The team's only loss came against Culpeper in the last match of the season. According to the coach, the most intense match was a win against Courtland, 5-4, which came down to the last doubles match.

Among the top players were Fernanda Ibarra, Julie Pryor, Erin McKeown, Amy

Carter, Catherine Ashby, Sara Rycroft, and Marianna Childress. Six of those top seven players will be returning in '95.

Coach VanderBerg stressed mental toughness and consistency which obviously paid off for the Jackets.

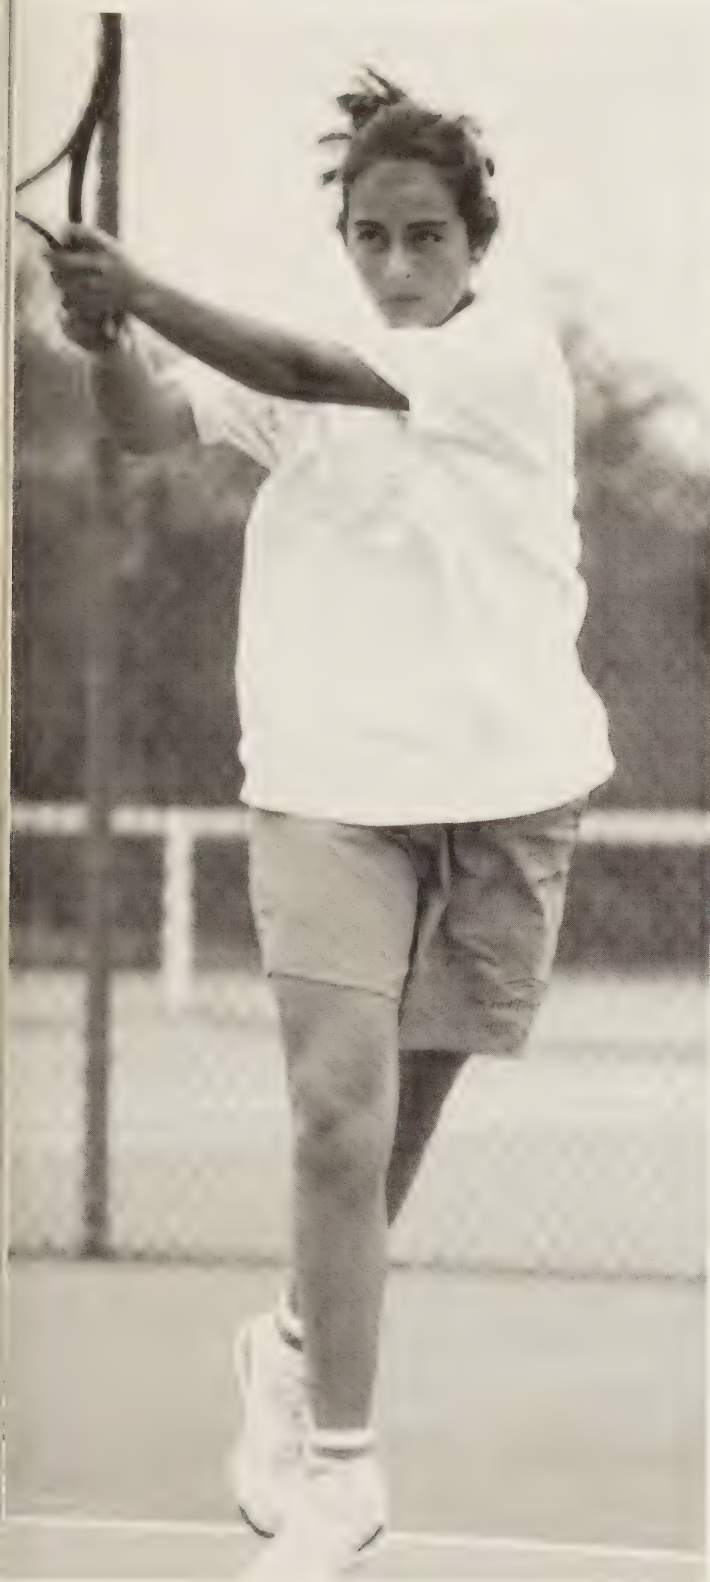

The new drills that Coach VanderBerg acquired from many years of experience helped whip the Jackets into incredible shape. As Julie Pryor said, "We were both physically and mentally ready to play."

Hi Ho, Hi Ho, it's off to dig we go! This spring, both the Boys' and Girls' tennis teams planted Cypress trees around the tennis courts to provide a natural windscreen. Bridget Walsh was one of many who helped.

" I've never been on a team that had better chemistry than this. We bonded and I think that's the reason for our success." - Erin McKeown

Fernanda Ibarra, who held the number one position for the entire season, hits an approach shot down the line, then moves into the net to attack her opponent.

Sara Rycroft hits a phenomenal shot cross-court to win the game. She was the number 5 player for the Jackets in the '94 season and was a huge attribute to their winning season.

BOYS' TENNIS

Making a Racket

In the Spring of 1994, the Boys' Tennis Team was led by long time coach Bob Calloway and gained great success. With five of the top six players making All-District, it was easy for the team to sweep the Battlefield District. This was the twelfth time in the twenty years that Jayem has been in the District that the Boys' Tennis Team has ranked first.

The team was also very successful at the Stafford Invitational. They were victorious in 21 out of 24 matches in the tournament and earned a first place title for the fifth time in nine years!

Losing to Western Albemarle with a score of 3-6 in the first round of Regionals was no embarrassment. Either of these teams could have won.

Overall, the Boys' Tennis Team had great success. They came on strong with the help of the talented coaching of Bob Calloway.

The 1994 James Monroe soccer season was very productive. The Varsity soccer team had an 8-3-2 record which put them in third place among district schools. In a total of thirteen games, forty goals were scored. The team's success came partially from the hard work and dedication of Coaches B.J. Tucker and Don Galloway. Also assisting the coaches this year were two members of the Mary Washington College men's team, Victor Bolestra and John Lee. Every soccer team in the district received two members from the college team. Coaches Bolestra and Lee helped out tremendously by teaching and sharing skills from their own experiences. Both were accepted and welcomed enthusiastically by members of the team. The team captains, Seniors John Beck and Chris Tierney, also contributed to the leadership of the team. John Beck, a talented midfielder, led the team in scoring; while Chris Tierney made the conversion from midfielder to goalie, and in the process kept the number of goals scored by opponents to a minimum.

Fourteen seniors graduated at the end of the season leaving three upcoming Seniors and one upcoming Junior to begin next year. Although many of the players will be new to the varsity team, that does not mean they will be new to the competition. The great enthusiasm for soccer that these young players possess led them to organize a team in preparation for their metamorphosis from Junior Varsity to Varsity. The dedication of these members will show next season.

The J.V. soccer team had a record of 2-5-1 for the 1994 season. The biggest victory came against Spotsylvania with a score of 3-1. The team was dedicated and worked hard. Their commitment showed as the season progressed, winning their games with better scores each game. With most of the J.V. players moving on to the Varsity level, the J.V. team will be doing a lot of rebuilding, but they are looking forward to a fun season.

Midfielder Doug Farrington dribbles the ball down the field for a possible JM score.

Adam Zandi races his opponent to the ball to pass it to the forward line. The result is, as Tommy Hayden would say, "GOAL!"

Lee Cherwek prepares to dodge the enemy while looking for an open team member.

Using his speed and agility, John Beck, a captain of the team and talented midfielder, positions himself to take the ball down the field and cross it so that the strikers can make their move. The varsity soccer team scored forty goals in thirteen games for the 1994 season.

High Speed

James Monroe track and field really left their mark in the spring of '94. The best was brought out in JM's track star prospects, allowing many records to be broken. Michelle Nichols broke the school record for discus, Sarah Wheeler broke the record for the 400 m, and the girls relay team, consisting of Wheeler, Beth Richards, Jessica Tolosa, and Jill Carbaugh broke the record for the 1600 meter relay.

A few guys also stood out and began to show the talents they had worked so hard to improve. They really excelled, and are sure to be outstanding in the coming years. Lubert Lewis- mid distances, R.C. Griffin, Andre Catlett, and O.R. Helmick- shot and discus, Ricardo Edwards- sprints, and Tony Fairchild- jumps and hurdles combined forces to truly make JM track unstoppable!

Mandy Pickett, running the mile at the regional meet at Spotsylvania High School, strives to finish her last lap.

Ricardo Edwards races to the long jump to make one of his best performances at the JM vs. Courtland meet.

Michelle Nichols completes her third attempt at throwing the discus at the state meet at James Madison University.

Patrick Smith and his fellow relay team members, placed tenth out of fifty five schools in the 4 x 800 relay at the Battleground Invitational.

You came to us in the month of June
 And brought us joy and glee.
 A baby girl we all adored,
 A blossom on our family tree.
 As you grew you took on life,
 With such pizzazz and wit
 We knew life's little problems
 Wouldn't stifle you one bit.
 When the challenges you faced
 From your memory do fade,
 Know that when you were handed lemons,
 You squeezed out lemonade.
 So don't think of graduation
 As the end to all your fun,
 In golfer's terms, here's wishing you,
 A life that's a "hole-in-one!"

All our love and best wishes for a wonderful future.
 We are so very proud!
 Love,
 Mom & Rick

Elliot Currie meticulously scrubs the crevices in the hubcap in hopes of getting a date with the foxy owner of the car. Being in yearbook has taught Elliot how to be a Macdaddy.

Justin Snyder, the computer guru, maxes and relaxes after a strenuous yearbook deadline.

Carwashes are a valuable source of income for the yearbook. Jyna Roots polishes the hood of a customer's car. She knows it is just right when she sees her pearly whites.

7:00 AM meetings and deadline days make these editors a tough crowd to please.

Sports editor Carrie Sheffield shakes her head in disbelief after redoing yet another "smiles at the camera while pondering the meaning of life" caption.
